Liberal and Cheerfully Prompt

To the Editor of the Telegram:

Of the $750 subscribed to the monument fund less than $50 remains unpaid. There is in this a cheerful promptness that argues well for the future of the Battle Ground Park. It is most encouraging and encouragement was needed.

The recent issuance of fifteen new shares of stock to individuals within the city's limits and to the city itself discovers a keener interest in and a juster appreciation of the enterprise than has heretofore existed. Then too, the recent enlightened action of our City Fathers, through their donation was very small, gives all now a common interest in the grounds—makes all feel that they are part owners of the same and it enabled many to put in their mite, who were desirous of so doing, but were simply unable to contribute such an amount as they were willing to have published in the papers.

It is most desirous that the small amount of subscriptions yet due, should be paid in as soon as possible. Please don't forget this longer.

Yours truly,

JOS. M. MOREHEAD.

Vice President G. B. G. Co.

Fisher Loses His Case.

Wilmington Star, 17th.

The case of W. E. Worth, receiver of the Greensboro Coal and Mining Company, against B. J. Fisher of New York, was decided in the Superior court yesterday afternoon adversely to the defendant, whereupon a motion for a new trial was lodged by Col. Jno. N. Staples and Messrs. Rountree & Carr, counsel for Col. Fisher. Upon the question of amount plaintiff is entitled to recover, the jury answered $1,000 with interest from June 1900, the date of summons in the action.

The verdict was rendered upon the instruction of Judge Hoke as in his view only a point of law was involved. The contentions of both parties to the suit were given at some length in these columns yesterday and the following are the issues submitted to the jury and the answers thereto:

Was Greensboro Coal and Mining Company a corporation as alleged in complaint? "Yes."

Was the plaintiff appointed receiver in creditor's bill against said company in which said company was adjudged insolvent and that a collection of entire subscription of all the stockholders holding assessable stock was necessary and required to pay outstanding debts of the company? "Yes."

Was defendant such a stockholder of the said company at time said action was instituted and said decree made? "Yes."

What amount, if any thing, is due and owing from defendant to plaintiff by reason of unpaid subscriptions? "Yes, and to the fourth issue $1,000.00 with interest from June 1900, date of summons in this action."

The other cases in which Mr. Worth receiver, is plaintiff and set upon the calendar for this week, were left open. It is probable that the question of a new trial will be heard by Judge Hoke very soon.

Mr. W. W. Wood returned at noon from a business trip toward Mt. Airy.

Mr. Ernest Clapp went to Gibsonville this afternoon.

Wat Kirkman, white, was arraigned before Mayor Taylor this morning charged with being drunk, and contributed $3.10 towards the city funds.

John Ringstaff, also white, was charged with a like offence, and was assessed $5.10. This not forthcoming he was lodged in jail.

Canadian Nickel.

It is claimed that Canada furnishes over 40 per cent. of the nickel of the world.

Hard Question.

"The world is round, and it goes round, Uncle 'Rastus,'" said the small grandson of the old colored man's former owner. "Don't you understand about it?"

"No, dey, I cya't say I does," admitted Uncle 'Rastus, surveying the well-varnished apple with which his little guest had illustrated his argument. "W'at holds de world up, dat's w'at I'd like to know, chile?"

"Why, it goes round de sun, Uncle 'Rastus,'" said the boy, eagerly, "and the sun holds it up by the law of attraction."

"Um, honey, I reckon you ain' gone quite far 'nough in yo' reasoning yet," said the old man with a smile of patronizing good nature. "In dat case, w'at would keep de world up when de sun's done gone down? Answer me dat, chile."—Youth's Companion.

Very Unfortunate.

She was very illiterate, but the wife of a city official and anxious to be entertaining. After some local gossip she told a little story of a man-friend who was a cripple, and ended the tale in this way:

"Just think! the poor fellow has not walked a step in 20 years, but has to be rolled about in an infidel chair."

"Terrible!" returned her mischievous hostess; "and so bad for his immortal soul."

"Oh, no!" quickly replied the guest; "it was his spine."—Judge.

DARING BOY PREVENTS A ROBBERY

PLUCKY TUSSLE WITH BURGLARS

CLEVELAND YOUNG BOUND AND GAGGED IN HIS FATHER'S OFFICE

Fifteen Year Old Son of John A. Young Seeing a Light in His Father's Office at Three O'clock This Morning Rushed Out of His Room and to the Office Only to be Confronted With Four Pistols in the Hands of Two Burglars—Tried to Shoot Them and Succeeded in Swiping One With His Pocket Knife Before He Was Left Prostrate With the Office Towel in His Mouth.

A daring attempt at safe blowing near this city was frustrated last night by a plucky fifteen-year-old boy—Cleveland Young, son of Mr. John A. Young, the nurseryman. The attempt was on the safe in Mr. Young's office on his plantation about 3 miles from town. Mr. Young was away from home last night on a trip to Mt. Airy. Even had the burglars gotten into the safe they would have gotten nothing as there was in it no money other than some very small change. But they didn't get in, and on that hangs a most interesting story of how a boy of grit fought two men in the dark, and he them was overcome, bound, gagged, and tied up to await the morning, while the robbers sped away in a buggy.

Mr. Young's house is across the road opposite the office. His son Cleveland sleeps in an upstairs room near a window, from which can be seen the office. For some reason he woke up about three o'clock this morning and saw a light flash across his window from the direction of the office. He jumped out of bed with the thought that the office was on fire inside, and hurriedly put on his clothes and rushed down, leaving the house by way of a back stairway and arousing none of the members of the household, there being no man in the house. His approach must have put on guard the two men whom he found to be in the office, for as he rushed up to the window to peer in to see what had become of the fire, they sprang from the door each with two pistols, and commanded him to be quiet and to come inside. Taking him in they commanded him to open the safe, but he replied that he did not know how. They said that they would shoot him if he didn't. "You'll have to shoot, then," he replied.

Finding that an entrance to the safe was not to be effected, the men began to be restless and explained to each other that the boy would be missed from the house and they would be set upon. One of the men proposed to bind the boy and carry him with them, but the other objected, and they decided to tie his hands behind him, gag him, and fasten him to the furniture of the room. They used the office towel for a gag, and wadded it in his mouth so that he could make no noise, but they had no rope to tie the boy with, and one of them asked him where a rope could be found. "He replied in the barn. They pushed him in the corner, one went for the rope, and one remained to guard him, warning him that he would shoot at any provocation. It happened that they had, in the dark, pushed the plucky boy in the corner where he had a few days ago put a loaded sixteen shooter rifle, and when he recollected that the rifle was there, he determined to get hold of it and give the robbers a battle. He had gotten hold of it and was slowly raising it when his captor discovered that he had something in his hands, and snatched it from him. Then the boy quietly drew out and opened his pocket knife. When the confederate returned, the two men began to bind him, and before they were aware that the knife was out, he slashed one of them across the arm and side. The blood is yet on his knife. Having succeeded in fastening him to the safe, the men left, got in their buggy and drove rapidly away. In about two hours, by the help of the dawning light, Cleveland succeeded in freeing himself. He came to town this morning and informed the police.

The men were well dressed and wore masks. One was a small man, and one a large one. The large one wore tan shoes, the boy said, and the small one had on patent leather ones.

NEWS FROM WASHINGTON.

Interesting Information About the Composition of the Ground on Which We Stand.

There is little wonder that the aspiring young newspaper man, whose first assignment carried him to the geological survey, felt like seeking some other profession after he had run against a genuine scientific treatise on matters geologic. Perhaps many an older man in the service would have been staggered to learn that "until the presence of the Algonkian rocks was determined the writer entertained the working hypothesis that a large laccolith of porphyry might have been introduced at a horizon near the base of the Paleozoic formations, but the appearance of the pre-Paleozoic rocks in the heart of the mountains, with on evidence of the hypothesized laccolith, renders it improbable that the uplift can be primarily connected with porphyry intrusion." However, it was gratifying to know, relates the Washington Post, that "all the sheet rocks and many dikes are included petrographically under a single name, monzonite-porphry, expressing the composition, in which the alkali feldspar, orthoclase, and the sodaline feldspar, plagioclase, are estimated to play approximately equal roles. The further composition of the rock is expressed by saying that it is a quartz-bearing hornblende monzonite-porphry."

Many a man would perhaps sleep sounder at night if he were only aware that "the hornblende monzonite-porphry intrusions and the monzonite stock are by far the most important of the igneous masses in the Rico mountains. The rock is in composition a monzonite-porphry in which orthoclase assumes a prominent position in large phenocrysts, while plagioclase occurs in part in the groundmass. The rock is more closely related to the stock monzonite in composition than to the earlier hornblende monzonite-porphry."

Imagine the thrill that ran down his spine when he learned that "contact metamorphism of the calcareous strata adjacent to the monzonite stock is very pronounced at nearly all places where the former rocks are exposed in the vicinity of the intrusive."

But after all he derived the most satisfaction from learning, much to his surprise, that "if the quiescent neve was ever permanently frozen in the nivated areas, many of the 'bergschunds' must have been situated well above the spheroid of perpetual frost."

An Ingenious Ad.

A speculative Scotch gentleman wanted to dispose of some bees, so to attract purchasers he printed the following: "Extensive sale of life stock, comprising not less than 145,000 head, with an unlimited right to pasture." The ingenious trick succeeded to admiration, for his stock brought "high prices."

THE BIG SOUTHERN STORM

FORCIBLY REMINDING OF THE GALVESTON HORROR.

Reports Are Coming Slowly From the Interior and Show that the Storm Was Wider than Was Supposed.

By Wire to The Telegram.

New Orleans, April 19.—Yesterday's storm in Mississippi, Alabama, Louisiana, equaled in the velocity of the wind the Galveston horror. The total loss at Gadsden and Selma, Ala., and the surrounding territory is two and half millions. The cotton crop is greatly damaged. A church at Gadsden was destroyed and six lives lost. Reports of loss of life and personal injury are coming in slow from the interior district. The reports make the storm greater in extent than was at first supposed.

Ball Game Tomorrow.

The University base ball team will pass through the city tonight on their way to Charlottesville, Virginia, where they will cross bats tomorrow with the University of Virginia team for the championship of the South. Both teams are said to be in fine condition and a good game of ball may be expected from them. No game was played between these two teams last year.

Ran Into a Brick Wall.

A horse belonging to Mr. J. T. Rankin while in a vacant lot near Mr. Rankin's store in South Greensboro yesterday afternoon caught his foot in the bridle and becoming frightened ran into a brick wall and was knocked senseless. The animal was finally brought to sufficiently to walk home.

Road Improvement Near South Buffalo.

Work on the road beyond South Buffalo is going forward rapidly. The ground beyond Buffalo is low and a fill nine hundred and sixty feet long and three or four feet high will be built. The old road is zigzag beyond the creek and the new one will be run straight. The hill beyond Buffalo will be cut down seven feet at the top, and the road macadamized.

The bridge over Buffalo will be rebuilt and made fifty feet in length. These improvements when completed will add much to that section of the county.

WILL LAST TWENTY YEARS.

New Kind of Fabric to be Manufactured by the Mills in England.

If the plans of certain English capitalists do not miscarry it will be possible ere long for the economical parent to purchase a suit of clothes which may be passed along among his sons for a fifth of a century, says the Chicago Chronicle. Mills are now being built in England for the manufacture of this kind of long-wearing material, which can be turned out in almost any color wanted. Think of getting a suit of clothes that will last for 50 years; that will cost only a third more than a suit costs now, and that will be absolutely waterproof without appearing to be so. Revolutionize is rather an overworked word, but it fits this case exactly. Instead of singing "Papa's Pants Will Soon Fit Johnnie," the refrain will run "Johnnie Soon Will Wear Pa's Pants," for when pa once begins to wear these extremely useful articles before Johnnie has got out of dresses he may continue to wear them for the next 20 years, and by that time Johnnie will have grown up to them. The same with little Mary and her mother's skirts. Instead of cutting down the garments for the girl, the mother will wear them for a generation or so and then turn them over to her daughter.

WAYS OF TWO CHIEFTAINS.

Roberts and Kitchener, Heads of the British Army, Contrasted by a War Photographer.

A photographer who went to the front on behalf of the leading illustrated journals and has just returned related an anecdote the other day which very aptly illustrates the different characters and methods of those two great English generals, Lord Roberts and Lord Kitchener, says the London Free Lance. He (the photographer) was provided by his employer with a special tarpaulin-covered cart and a couple of mules for the transport of his apparatus, and, needless to say, the name and style of his paper was writ large all over it. During those fierce days at Paardeberg preceding the surrender of Cronje there was a big run on the ambulance wagons, of which, owing to the rapid British advance, there were none too many. Proceeding cautiously one day with his cart and mules to a spot favorable to snapshotting a few pictures, the artist was suddenly confronted by an orderly who signed him to stop and spoke as follows: "Lord Roberts presents his compliments and would be glad if you would extend the loan of your cart for a couple of hours to convey a wounded trooper to the rear."

Of course there was only one possible answer to such a request. The photographer hastily climbed down and evinced in the rapidity with which he undid his tackle how much real pleasure it gave him to comply. But that was not all. At the expiration of the two hours the orderly again galloped up and said: "Lord Roberts presents his compliments and would be glad if you would extend the loan of your cart for a further two hours." Absolutely flushing with pleasure, the artist could do nothing but blurt out his readiness to lend his cart to so courteous a commander for just as long as he should be pleased to retain it. Promptly at the expiration of the time named, however, the cart and mules were brought safely back, along with an expression of thanks from the commander in chief for the assistance rendered him.

But now mark the difference in the case of "the man of iron." The very next day a precisely similar emergency arose. This time, however, Lord Kitchener himself rode up, accompanied by a troop of lancers. Aiding evidently upon orders just given, two of the troopers sprang from their saddles, one of them seized and held the mules and the other proceeded with the utmost dispatch and without so much as a look at the astonished artist to undo the fastenings at the back of the cart and unload the tackle. "What is it, my lord?" gasped the photographer, helplessly, from the box seat. "Quick, man, get down and lend a hand. Sorry, but we must commandeer you for ambulance," was the reply he received. And before he could quite realize the situation the two mules had been "outspanned," his traps strewn about the ground and his cart attached to two mounted troopers and was thundering over the veldt. As to when, where or how it would be returned to him was left entirely to his imagination, as Kitchener and his staff immediately galloped away without vouchsafing a word.

DEADLY CARBON MON-OXIDE.

Its Insidious and Fatal Effects Graphically Illustrated in Recent Accidents.

The recent death of one laundress and narrow escape of another through the breathing of escaping gas from a laundry stove in which there was a coke fire, both of them overcome while awake and working and in a large room full of doors and windows, recalls the graphic account given by Dr. A. E. Miller of the wholesale poisoning which occurred by this same gas, carbon monoxide, at the Snaefell mining disaster. A rescuing party was overtaken by the gas and one of their number kept writing a description of his sensations as long as his pencil would trace the words. He wrote:

"We all sat without moving or trying to escape; the foot of the ladder was close by, yet none of us made any effort to go to it and ascend even a single rung. We none of us tried to walk a dozen steps, which would have led us to the other side of the shaft partition, where we all knew there was a current of better air."

The poisonous gases in these cases were carbon mon and di oxide, chiefly the former, both of which are present in ordinary illuminating gas, says the New York Times. The carbon monoxide, which is by far the more dangerous of the two, is present in the so-called water gas (which has largely replaced the old-fashioned coal gas in the large cities) to the extent of 20 to 30 per cent. Its insidious and paralyzing nature may be seen from the way in which the rescuing party simply sat down and waited for death, when a few steps would have saved them, and in the fact that two able-bodied, healthy women were overcome while wide awake and not six feet from several doors and windows.

The dangerous stealthiness of this gas seems to be due to its gradual combination with the haemoglobin of the blood (which is the agent carrying oxygen to the tissues and removing the waste carbon dioxide), into a very stable compound, so stable in fact, that it prevents the usual absorption of oxygen in the lungs and thus really brings about an asphyxiation of the tissues. It is the poisonous gas given off from burning charcoal, which is sometimes used for suicidal purposes.

OUR VISITORS YESTERDAY.

To Dr. McIver Greensboro is indebted for the pleasure of having within her gates yesterday a company of men, many of whom have for a long time occupied a large section of the public eye in one way or another. It was really a highly interesting, not to say exceedingly notable company of people, and something beyond the mere brief and sterile facts innumerable in yesterday necessarily hurried accounts will be, we are sure, acceptable to our readers. It was a body representative of wealth, intelligence and religion. The desire of its members is to find out, first hand, the real conditions and problems of Southern education both as relates to whites and blacks. Much money has come through their influence to the South and doubtless much will come. There is no reason why it should not be diverted into more useful channels than heretofore, and there is no doubt that the earnest desire of these men is that they may be helpful in the best way to whatever section of the country they undertake to favor. These trips are made each year by men who think along the same lines, though, of course the personnel is not always the same. The representation is of a class rather than individuals, and in it there are a great many other well known men beside those here yesterday. After this brief explanation, a more close reference to some of the more notable of our visitors of yesterday, may be of interest. THREE WELL KNOWN EDITORS.

It is not often that in one party, except peculiarly an editorial gathering, are to be seen three so distinguished editors and publishers of periodical literature as were here yesterday in the persons of Dr. Lyman Abbott, editor of the religious and literary weekly journal, The Outlook; Dr. Albert Shaw, the editor of that most useful of all magazines, the American Review of Reviews, and Walter H. Page creator and editor of the new magazine fast springing into public favor, the World's Work. In the party also was Mr. Doubleday of the publishing houses of McClure and Doubleday, and Doubleday, Page & Co. Mr. Page is, as is well known, a native of this State. In personal appearance he is not handsome. He is of large build and rugged face. He looks more the doer than the thinker.

Dr. Shaw made a very happy talk. He said that his grandfather emigrated in a high-tailed North Carolina wagon from this immediate section of the State about one hundred years ago to Kentucky, and ever since then he had wanted to come back here but had not until now had the opportunity.

He said that he had visited all sections of our common country and that they were about all alike, and that the scene before him would fit New England as well as North Carolina. He had recently visited Wesley and Vassar, and the women of those institutions put before him would look as those he saw, and the Normal girls transplanted to those schools would look as their students. Dr. Shaw has a young look, in spite of some gray hair.

DR. ABBOTT.

Dr. Lyman Abbott was perhaps the most notable figure of the group. While the Bishop of Albany is a person of note, and was most striking in his peculiar garb, he is not known in this section nor in the country at large, and therefore not interesting to the present purpose. He would not at all feel offended by such a summary dismissal by a country paper and he has the appearance, with all respect, of being too well satisfied with the good things of this world and his apparent clinch on the hereafter to care very much about how things go. That is simply his physical appearance and no disrespect is meant in saying so.

Dr. Abbott has the distinction of having been lawyer, minister, author and editor. He began as a lawyer and practiced three years, and then elected to become a minister. He preached regularly until some three years ago, when he resigned the pastorate of the Plymouth church to give more time to his work as editor of the Outlook. He yet preaches but not so often. He is in the forefront of biblical scholars, and is an author of indefatigable energy. He writes with a clearness and a vigor unsurpassed. His works on the "Minor Prophets" are singular luminous and interesting. He belongs to the school of higher criticism, and whatever one may think on that subject, his writings are brilliantly fascinating, and vibrant with a real spirituality. The fundamental principle of his belief is that we are God's children, and around this vital thought he builds a religion and a philosophy that are inspiring, and, we believe, satisfying.

These remarks concerning Dr. Abbott are based upon impressions formed from a casual reading after him of some years. One thing more is quite interesting. In personal appearance at some distance Dr. Abbott strikingly resembles the late Dr. William Royal of Wake Forest College, one of the best and wisest men that ever lived in this State. Though seventy years of age Dr. Abbott is as active as a man of fifty. He is the most approachable of men and is exceedingly kind and agree-

A CATHOLIC JUBILEE.

Closing of the Century Celebration
in Old Rome.

Elaborate and Impressive Ceremonial Known as the Closing of the Holy Door and Its Significance.

Many ceremonies took place in Rome in connection with the close of the nineteenth century, but none was either more interesting or imposing than that incidental to the closing of the holy door at St. Peter's cathedral. The last year of the century is jubilee year in the Catholic church, as all Catholics and many Protestants are aware. Therefore 1900 was marked by many ceremonies in connection with the period. The opening of the holy door took place over a year ago, and the ceremonial of closing was observed last Christmas eve. Owing to the delicate state of the present pope's health the building in which the opening and closing ceremonies took place had been heated to the temperature of Leo XIII's private apartments to avoid any possibility of his holiness taking a chill, says a London paper.

The ceremony of opening the holy door is declared to be symbolical of the fact that the church is open to all men so long as they go there after a thorough and sincere conversion. When the pope opens the door the three knocks which he gives to it represent the three continents—Europe, Africa and Asia—to which the pope offers the treasures which he is the medium for dispensing. The three strokes also are looked upon as symbolizing the joy that the jubilee causes to the faithful of heaven, earth and purgatory. The pope, who is seated on a raised throne in front of the large door in the middle of the grand portico, remains stationary for a brief while until the prince of the throne presents a golden hammer to his holiness, which the latter takes in his right hand and, rising from his throne, goes and knocks at the holy door. His clergy follow him, each with a candle in his hand. His holiness, after knocking three times at the door, says in Latin: "Open to me these doors of justice!" Then the choir adds: "This is the door of the Eternal One, and the just will enter in." After this the master masons knock down the wall which incloses the holy door, the wall being so lightly put together, however, that its four sides are held together but slightly, the stones of which it is composed not being cemented. Thus, no sooner has the pope knocked at the holy door than it falls without any resistance. The debris of the wall is distributed among the worshippers, who hasten to catch it in order to put it among their precious relics.

While this is taking place the pope reseats himself on the throne, but after the demolition is completed the penitentiaries of St. Peter take their brooms, clean the floor, remove the pieces of brick and mortar from the passage—which are not looked upon as material to be held in light esteem, since relics are made of them—and wash the moldings and all round the door with holy water. This work being finished his holiness once more descends from his throne, singing the anthem which opens with the words: "Hæc dies quam fecit Dominus," etc., which the choir continues to sing after him. Arriving at the holy door the pope recites some prayers, takes the cross, kneels before the door, intones the Te Deum, and, rising again while singing, passes through the holy door, his clergy following him. Everybody who can goes into St. Peter's to witness this superb ceremony or to take part in the vespers at the chapel. After the vespers the cardinals take off their robes and put on their red capes, accompany the pope to the door of his private apartments and then retire. After the morning mass on Christmas day his holiness goes to the lodge of the benediction, where he blesses the faithful in the form which is only used on the occasion of the jubilee.

The closing of the door is a very similar ceremony to the opening. The greatest solemnity is observed, and thousands of privileged pilgrims flock to the cathedral to be witnesses of what, except in rare instances, occurs but once in a lifetime. His holiness lays the first brick for the closing of the door, all the cardinals, monsignors and other dignitaries in Rome being witnesses of the operation. The bricks used for this purpose are about double the ordinary size, being covered with a thin layer of plate—in some cases of silver and in others of gold. They bear in relief the papal arms and the inscription: "Leo XIII. Pont. Max. Aperuit et clausit."

Silas—Hiram is one of the stingiest men I ever ran across. Still, he bought a thermometer the other day—a 15-cent one.

Joseph—Yes; but he was feelin' purty blue over it yesterday. He said the cold snap was over by the time he got it.—Puck.

THE OVERWORKED TELEPHONE

Its Field of Usefulness Growing Larger and Larger—Its Latest Uses.

One of our steam contemporaries calls attention to the fact that an American manufacturer of rotary pumps advertises as follows: "Our pumps at work about three miles out in the country are started and stopped from the company's city office, their operation being ascertained by telephone. This goes on for days without any person going near them." There could, of course, be other electrical methods of observing the fact that the motors and pumps were at work, but the audible indication of the telephone is all right.

There seems to be no end of the duties that can be thrown on the telephone, and each latest suggests a new one, says the Electrical World and Engineer. For example, in mill towns, it is now found that calling people up in the morning by telephone beats the alarm clock and the perambulating watchman all hollow. This idea has recently received an extension in a western city, where a patient, tired of depending on careless nurses, now has them notified by telephone every time the hour comes around for the administration of his dose. It is said the plan works to perfection.

Paternalism in Mexico.

The life of the hacienda is one of the characteristics down there; as it used to be in old plantation days, everything is grown or made on the farm. There is a fine specimen of one not far from Chapala belonging to a rich Mexican. The house rambles around three courtyards or patios and the stairway is on the first inner court outside the house. All the rooms are on different levels, with a step or two from one to another. Long galleries run around each patio. Close to the house, almost in the garden, is a lovely old church 128 years old. It is small and picturesque. Great pink oleanders like large bouquets on the low gray adobe will make a bit of color for an artist. On this hacienda they have a mill run by machinery, so that the flour leaves in the sacks and is taken down by the cars by a light tram drawn by mules. —Chicago Chronicle.

Boston Suet Pudding.

One cupful suet, chopped fine; one cupful molasses, two of sweet milk, one-half cupful of sugar, three cupfuls flour, and one each of raisins and chopped dates; add nutmeg, cloves and cinnamon to suit; one teaspoonful soda, and one of salt. Steam four hours, and dry in the oven. This will keep for months, and may be reheated at any time. Serve hot, with sour sauce.—Ladies' World, New York.

Scrofula

THE OFFSPRING OF HEREDITARY BLOOD TAIN.

Scrofula is but a modified form of Blood Poison and Consumption. The parent who is tainted by either will see in the child the same disease manifesting itself in the form of swollen glands of the neck and throat, catarrh, weak
eyes, offensive sores and abscesses and oftentimes white swelling—sure signs of Scrofula. There may be no external signs for a long time, for the disease develops slowly in some cases, but the poison is in the blood and will break out at the first favorable opportunity. S. S. S. cures this wasting, destructive disease by first purifying and building up the blood and stimulating and invigorating the whole system.

J. M. Seals, 115 Public Square, Nashville, Tenn., says: "Ten years ago my daughter fell and cut her forehead. From this wound the glands on the side of her face became swollen and burst.
Some of the best doctors here and elsewhere attended her without any benefit. We decided to try S. S. S., and a few bottles cured her entirely."

SSS makes new and pure blood to nourish and strengthen the body, and is a positive and safe cure for Scrofula.

It overcomes all forms of blood poison,
whether inherited or acquired, and no remedy so thoroughly and effectively cleanses the blood. If you have any blood trouble, or your child has inherited some blood taint, take S. S. S. and get the blood in good condition and prevent the disease doing further damage.

Send for our free book and write our physicians about your case. We make no charge whatever for medical advice.

FOR CHILDREN

Nothing, that comes in a bottle, is more important for children than Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil. And "important" means that it keeps them in even health, on the highest plane of physical life.

"Do they live on it then?"

No; they don't touch it, except when they need it.

"When do they need it?"

Whenever they show, in whatever way, the least disturbance of even balance of health.
It is not for acute diseases, with some exceptions; it is for a slight falling off from first-rate condition.

It is to be used as a food, whenever their usual food does not quite answer the purpose of food.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.

RHEUMATISM | CATARRH — DIS-

EASES CURED BY B. B. B.
It is the deep-seated, obstinate cases of catarrh and rheumatism that B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) cures. It matters not what other treatments doctors, sprays, liniments, medicated air blood purifiers, have failed to do, B. B. B. always promptly reaches the real cause and roots out and drives from the bones, joints, mucous membrane, and entire system the specific poison in the blood that causes rheumatism and catarrh. B. B. B. is the only remedy strong enough to do this and cure and so there can never be a return to the symptoms. Don't give up hope, but try B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) or 3 Bs.

For sale by druggists and Howard Gardner, in Greensboro, at $1 per large bottle, or 6 large bottles (full treatment) $5. To prove our faith in B. B. B. we will send a trial bottle free to sufferers, so they may test the remedy at our expense. Address Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga.

"Last winter I was confined to my bed with a very bad cold on the lungs. Nothing gave me relief. Finally my wife bought a bottle of One Minute Cough Cure that effected a speedy cure. I cannot speak too highly of that excellent remedy."—Mr. T. K. Houseman, Manatawney, Pa. Howard Gardner.

OUR VISITORS YESTERDAY.

able to a stranger.

DR. PARKHURST.

Those who are fond of seeing men who are conspicuous in the public eye, were doubtless much gratified at the appearance in this section of Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst, the noted minister and slum visitor of New York city. The doctor looked exactly as Puck pictures him bucking the tiger, with one exception. His former chin whiskers have been reinforced by a side growth which give his features a flat appearance instead of the sharp one of the pictures. He frankly stated that he knew nothing about the South, but he certainly knew something of the province of women, and he told it.

ROBT. C. OGDEN.

The executive head of a mammoth concern like that of Wannamaker's New York Store must be a master, and a master is Robert C. Ogden. He is typical of the men of this country who do big things, who make big money. They do them for the pleasure of the doing, and he who attributes their motives to the mere love of money is mistaken. In the accumulation of money a point is soon reached where money has no value except as it enables men to be masterful, to do. Mr. Ogden is of commanding figure, gray, and has a most pleasant face. He has the appearance of a man who has been careful in the making of money and must be convinced of the propriety of its prospective use before turning it loose. He made one of the most witty speeches of the day.

DR. CURRY.

We all know Dr. Curry, but out of very respect for the man and the work he has done no omission should be made of him. Soldier, statesman, author, diplomat, educator, defender and benefactor of the South, we blush to think how near the last legislature of this State came of forever disgracing itself by refusing to hear Dr. Curry speak. If one were so ignorant as to think him not Southern in sentiment let him get Dr. Curry's book, "The South and the North," and read his defense of the rights of the states under the constitution.

Very many other interesting persons were in the group, but space forbids a further enumeration.

"I had piles so bad I could get no rest nor find a cure until I tried DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. After using it once, I forgot I ever had anything like piles."—E. C. Boice, Somers Point, N. Y. Look out for imitations. Be sure you ask for DeWitt's. Howard Gardner.
